

A Few Words From The President

Over this last month the US Government has been shut down, something that doesn't happen anywhere else in the world. While other nations may have budget disputes, it rarely leads to this sort of extreme measure, while in the US it frequently does. The cause of this breakdown is the extreme polarization between the two main political parties in the US, the Democrats, who tend to be more liberal and the Republicans, who tend to be more conservative. Each has a stance on the national budget, and each refuses to budge on their stance. The result is that no budget has been passed and thus the government, lacking funding, shut down. This sort of government polarization is extremely bad for the nation. Governments exist to serve the people, and a broken government serves no one. In a democracy, a government that serves no one, much less the people, is of no use. In my opinion, the American people need to fix this. After all, the government works for them, and like any non-functioning employee, should be dealt with when it doesn't. I think it's time for the American people to demand that their government work for them, and not the other way around, and set about repairing the divisions between not only the government but the nation as a whole.

Molossia's Newest Citizen

27 October 2025 XLVIII

Here in the Republic of Molossia, with our tiny population, we are proud to count our dogs among our citizens. They are loyal, protective and often entertaining. Thus it was without hesitation that in the month of October we added one new resident to our canine population, Lulu Aloha Baugh. Lulu is a Malshipoo, a mix of Maltese, Shi-Tzu and Poodle. She was named after a lively debate over a wide variety of unusual names, the finalists being Lulu and Mochi. Lulu is our 39th citizen, after the loss of several of Molossia's canine citizens over the past year. Lulu is a wonderful, fluffy, bouncy addition to our great nation!

Serrakey State Visit

11 October 2025 XLVIII

On 11 October 2025 XLVIII, King Ryan Lehfeltd of the Kingdom of Serrakey visited Molossia for the first State Visit between our two nations. Serrakey's home is not far from Molossia, in nearby Minden, Nevada. King Ryan arrived at 10:39 AM MST, accompanied by Queen Jessica and their entourage, and all were immediately escorted to Republic Square. There, the Serrakey flag was hoisted alongside that of Molossia. Subsequent to the playing of both nations' national anthems, His Excellency and the King, as well as the Queen and the First Lady, all signed a Joint Declaration on Human Dignity. The Joint Declaration promotes educational and cultural initiatives that foster respect for human life and freedom and encourages cooperation to build a future grounded in compassion and opportunity. Following the signing of the Declaration, a stamp was presented representing this State Visit and recognizing the friendship between our two great nations.

Following the ceremony, The President and First Lady took the King and Queen on a tour of Molossia, accompanied by a large group of tourists, as this day was also the October tour of Molossia. During the tour the group saw all the sights of our nation. Following the tour King Ryan and his Queen departed Molossia, thus ending a successful diplomatic meeting, a milestone for both of our nations.

The Last Word With The First Lady

Hello all! November is here, the month of gratitude. November is the month where we take pause and reflect on the good things in our life. It's very easy to get caught up in the terrors of this world, but taking a moment to look around and being thankful for the space you live in, the people you love, the food you eat, the safe place you dream at night only takes a second. Taking that moment, helps us feel grounded and more connected to the earth and the people around us. Once we have that baseline feeling of safety and peace, we can move forward and see where we can help others. Lending a helping hand to others builds a bridge of friendship and understanding. Creating connections creates community and community is life, a beautiful life full of love and laughter and people that you can depend on. What small steps can you take to create community around you? Is there someone in your life that you can reach out to, just to say hello? One day you could be the person someone is grateful to have by their side. A small act of kindness can turn into a wave of greatness. Go choose an act of kindness and see what chain reaction you set off. Make this a wonderful November. I know I will.

Thank you all and until next time, keep the sun on your shoulders and a smile in your heart.
